his mother was mortal. Zeus' wife, Hera, despised Hercules because he was not her son. When he was an infant, she placed analies in his cribt What happened next was surprising. Hercules crushed the snakes and was discovered playing with them as rattles. Hercules has always been very strong.

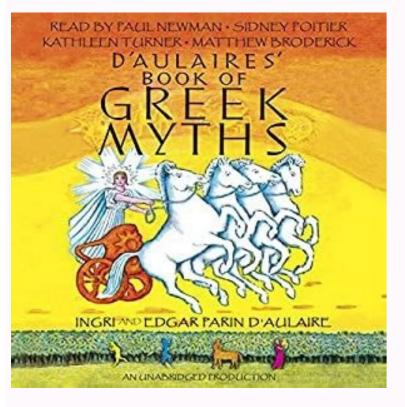

As Hercules got cider, Hera devised a plan. She asked a crust king to come up with 12 tasks that Hercules had to complete. If Hercules completed as 12 labors he would receive immortality. Although, what Hera did not mention was that the tasks were designed to be impossible. She really believed that Hercules would perish before completing the tasks.

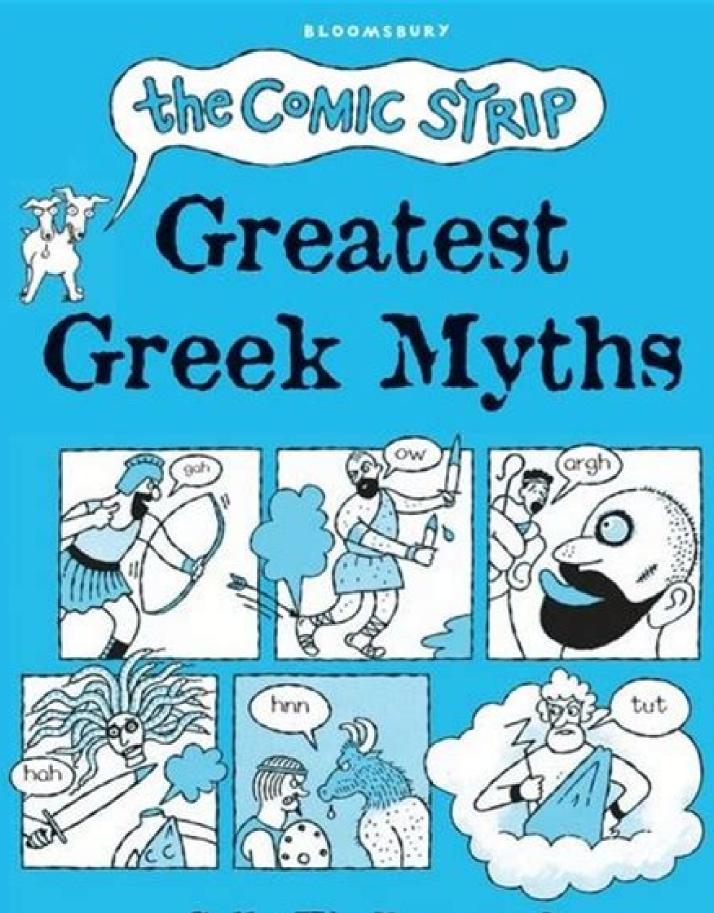

As his first labor, Hercules was asked to defeat the Nemeon ion. Now, this was a challenge because the Nemeon ion was magical Its skin could not be out by arrows or spears. Hercules wound up blocking the ion in his cave and fought him with his bare hands. After defeating the Nemeon ion, Hercules wore its hide as a clock because it offered him protection.

Next, Hercules was sent to destroy the Hydra. The Hydra was amonster with many heads. As soon as Hercules cut off one head, two more grew in its place! At first, it seemed as though Hercules would surely de at the hands of the Hydra, but then his luck changed. His rephew was watching the fight and came to help. As Hercules out off each head, his nephew used a torch to sear the wound so no more heads would grow there. Hercules completed the second task!

Here, was extremely disappointed to hear that Hercules went on to complete all 12 labors. Zeus was especially impressed by Hercules, and Hercules was made a god. Athena came down in her charict to carry Hercules up to Nount Olympus where he would live from now on.
